John Drew Clay is the PASRR Administrative Office Specialist with the Office of Integrated Health at the Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services. John helps ensure that Virginians with intellectual/developmental disabilities or severe mental illness, and seeking nursing facility placement are appropriate, that they can't be served in a less restrictive setting, and that they receive appropriate services while in the nursing facility.

John attended the University of Georgia, where he majored in Political Science, History, and Philosophy. He continued his education at Western Kentucky University, where he took graduate courses in History. After college, he assisted in the writing of a high school history text, worked for a US Congressman, and taught US History courses at a community college in Virginia.

Prior to coming to work for the State of Virginia's PASRR Unit, he worked both in the Estate Planning and in the Life Insurance & Financial Planning industries. John has served Virginia's citizens for well over a decade.
